Ashland with C&EN BrandLab:
A Case Study

Defining Ashland's Business Challenge

Can a company change how it's investing its advertising budget to get a better return? C&EN and Ashland explored how the company could adapt its approach to find more attractive results in advancing Ashland's reputation. C&EN devised a plan to create a custom content campaign to highlight lesser-known markets - - pharma and environment -- and demonstrate Ashland's commitment to customer integrity and profitability.

C&EN was tasked with solving these questions:

Our Approach to Better Advertising ROI: Custom Content and Audience Development

1

Know What Makes Your Audience Tick (and Click).

C&EN helped Ashland uncover content topics that its target audience would engage with, driving 2x the pageviews of C&EN's editorial average.

2

Demand Attention with Premium Positioning.

C&EN carved out the most high-impact advertising units to promote Ashland's advertising and content, ensuring the company would be front and center.

3

Ask for the Action You Want.

C&EN conducted in-depth A/B testing to determine what calls to action were most effective to drive clicks to Ashland ads and content, which Ashland can use to improve future campaigns.

From a reader on their reaction to Ashland's campaign:

“I need information, and an article gives it to me. It also makes me actually know what the company is all about. I think this is important for highly technical companies because their particular niche can be complex.”
